Before You Cook

This cookbook was built around one idea: eating healthy should not require a lot of money, a lot of time, or a culinary degree.

Every recipe in this book uses ingredients you can find at any grocery store, keeps prep and cook time under 30 minutes, and is designed to fit into a full week of eating for under $50.

You will find 30 recipes across four sections — Breakfasts, Lunches, Dinners, and Meal Prep Staples. The Meal Prep section is especially important. Making batch chicken, rice, and roasted vegetables on Sunday afternoon is the move that makes the rest of the week easy.

Every recipe includes calorie and macro information per serving, and an estimated cost per serving so you know exactly what you are spending.

Nutritional values are estimates based on USDA data. Actual values may vary based on brands, cooking methods, and portion sizes.

Now stop thinking about what to cook. Let's go.

5 Habits That Make This Book Work

1. Cook rice and chicken on Sunday — saves 20 minutes every weekday night.
2. Buy proteins in bulk and freeze what you don't use that week.
3. Keep canned beans, canned tomatoes, and frozen shrimp in stock always.
4. Read the tip at the bottom of each recipe — it is usually the most useful line on the page.
5. Scale recipes up 2x and eat leftovers. Most of these get better on day two.

- 3 medium sweet potatoes, peeled and diced into 1-inch cubes
- 1 tbsp olive oil
- 1/2 tsp cinnamon (sweet) or paprika (savory)
- Salt to taste

Instructions

1. Preheat oven to 425°F. Line a baking sheet with foil or parchment.
2. Toss sweet potato cubes with olive oil, salt, and seasoning.
3. Spread in a single layer — do not crowd or they will steam instead of roast.
4. Roast 20-25 minutes, flipping once at the halfway point, until edges are golden.
5. Cool and store in the fridge up to 5 days.

Tip: Make sweet (cinnamon) and savory (paprika) batches at the same time on two pans.
